

SINGING FUN 'N GAMES

Arizona Music Educators Association 2025

Clinician: Artie Almeida, Ed.D.

"The only thing better than singing is MORE singing!"

. . . Ella Fitzgerald

Join your colleagues in lessons that will have your students singing joyfully, while addressing audiation, melody direction, intervals, steady beat, and phrases. These fun and challenging opportunities include both primary and intermediate level lessons to encourage musical growth in unique ways.

1. Chumbara (French-Canadian nonsense song)

Source: Singing Fun and Games! (Publication by Almeida)

Focus: Octave, Melodic Direction and Intervals, Diction

Materials: Three bags for the word fragments, Syllable cards for each bag (see PPT visual for details)

Process: Teach the song with original verse of nonsense syllables. Focus on descending scale line and octave skips. In a subsequent lesson, prepare three bags of nonsense syllables for children to use in constructing new words. Bag One should contain word fragments that begin with consonants, Bag Two should contain cards of one single vowel, Bag Three should contain word fragments that begin with a consonant and end in a vowel.

2. Swimming

"You can't be great if you can't audiate!" ☺

Source: Singing Fun and Games! (Publication by Almeida)

Focus: Melody, Audiation

Materials: Projectable Visual from book is provided

Process: Display visual and sing song for students, then invite students to sing the song with you. Be sure to emphasize that this is not a "take-away-the-words" song, but rather a "keep-them-in-your-head" song. Each projected slide highlights the new words to internalize, in an additive fashion.

3. The Cat Opera (Rossini)

Source: This activity was shared with me by Debbie Clifton, and I thank her for allowing me to share it with you!

Focus: Vocal Timbres, Opera Genre, Melodic Direction.

Materials: Kitty responders on sticks, two for each student (different color for male/female voices)

Process: Lead the class in listening, with teacher using a duo of kitty responders to show the melody direction of the two contrasting voices. Distribute sets of responders to students and repeat the listening experience, while they match your motions. There are numerous good YouTube videos of this piece that your students will enjoy. Practice, practice, practice this one! ☺

4. There's a Spider on the Floor

Source: Words by Bill Russell, adapted by Artie Almeida. Tune: "If You're Happy & You Know It"

Focus: Steady Beat, Phrases, Rhyming Words, Blending, Coda

Materials: A harmonic accompaniment instrument enhances this experience. I use a guitar, ukulele, etc. A class set of toy or paper spiders is great for engagement. There is a page of cute clip art spiders provided in the clinic PPT for duplication. Additionally, there is a fun "Spider Facts Page" in the visual for this song.

Process: Create many verses to sing with the children, then allow small groups of students to create their own rhyming verses and sing for their classmates. Send a paper spider home with each student and encourage the students to teach this song to their families. Another fun extension is to ask each student to write a new rhyming verse to share with their music class next week.

5. Long-Legged Sailor

Source: Singing Fun and Games! (Publication by Almeida)

Focus: Steady Beat, Body Percussion Patterns, Tuneful Singing, Working Well with Partners

Materials: Cards to use as humorous replacement words for "sailor."

(Continuation of Long Legged Sailor plan)

Process: Add the following song motions step-by-step:

- Sing the song and spread arms wide on each sung word “long.”
- Continue with the previous motion on the words “long,” and add to them (in order) from the directions below:
- Do a drumroll on lap during “Have you” and strike lap on “ever”, then do another drumroll on lap during “No, I’ve” and strike lap again on “never.”
- Repeat the song with all those motions and add a lap pat on each sung word “wife.” It happens quickly and will be challenging for the kiddos at first!
- Begin the full pattern below with the children and repeat it a few times to help them feel comfortable:
 - “Have . . . you . . .” (drumroll on lap)
 - “ever” (strike lap with both hands)
 - “ever” (clap your own hands)
 - “ever” (push hands out in front of you, like clapping a partner’s hands)
 - “in your” (clap your own hands)
 - “long” (arms out wide to your sides)
 - “legged” (clap your own hands)
 - “life” (push hands out in front of you, like clapping a partner’s hands)
 - “seen a” (clap your own hands)
 - “long” (arms out wide to your sides)
 - “legged” (clap your own hands)
 - “sailor” (push hands out in front of you, like clapping a partner’s hands)
 - “with a” (clap your own hands)
 - “long” (arms out wide to your sides)
 - “legged” (clap your own hands)
 - “wife” (pat lap with both hands)
- Continue these same motions with verse #2: “No, I’ve never, never, never, in my long-legged life, seen a long-legged sailor with a long-legged wife!” Dramatic facial expressions will really bump up the fun!
- Replace “sailor” with some silly substitution words listed in the visual. Invite children to suggest silly 2-syllable words to use. Some favorite substitution words for “Sailor” include: Skeeter, Cockroach, Meatball, Pizza, Baby & Eyeball! ☺
